Intellectual Property Rights - Global Applications

When an internationally acclaimed entrepreneur and inventor puts his thinking cap on, the world changes as a result.

With the development work already completed and the performance proven here in New Zealand, this Patent pending product and the associated Intellectual Property are ready to be taken to the next level. The applications are immense, and our Vendor understands that significant funding is now required to execute the benefits not only in NZ, but internationally - funding he is unable to realise.

He is prepared to give significant support to the purchaser to ensure his 'baby' is nurtured and grown and monetised to every extent possible.

This resultant product IP introduces the word 'sustainable' into plastics and will provide significant benefits to the plastics / resins industry globally.

There is likely to be a significant financial, almost immediate, upside to the purchaser and this can only be discussed under a Confidentiality Agreement.
