

Nurse In The Family? $400k Annual Profit Awaits

The aesthetics sector is becoming a popular investment based on sustainable record growth generated by the focus on appearance medicine by younger generations.

If you have a nurse in the family, the potential for increased profits rises exponentially. This is an ideal business for someone who is a trained and registered nurse who can personally work within the business to increase margins on the most profitable aspect of a cosmetic medicine clinic - injectables.

Increasingly, both men and women alike are not only super-conscious of the way they look, but they're investing heavily to ensure they maintain their best possible appearance.

This well established South Island cosmetic medicine clinic came through the Covid years well and has continued to grow in both revenue and profitability.

Located in a busy street in an urban precinct, the business is part of a very supportive and well run franchise operation.

The owners have other business interests which are taking more of their time, so have chosen to exit the business with its
